FROZEN CANINE SEMEN RELEASE OF LIABILITY

Thank you for choosing Orangevale Veterinary Hospital for your frozen semen storage. For long term storage, you will be charged an annual storage fee of $75.00 per individual dog, no matter how many straws/vials that are stored with us for that dog.

AKC requires DNA Certification for all stud dogs collected for frozen semen. We require a copy of this certification, and will send in a DNA swab to AKC with the first semen collection, our charge for this is $55.

For those of you that are having semen shipped here and stored for short term use on a bitch that you plan on breeding within 6 months there will be no storage fee. If the semen is not used within that 6 month period or if there are additional breeding units left then you will be charged the annual storage fee of $75.00 per year per dog until all the semen is used. Our regular fees apply to all frozen semen collected, processed and stored here at Orangevale Veterinary Hospital.

Storage fees are due yearly. A current credit card must be on file for annual semen storage fees. You must keep us informed of any updates to this card on file. If charges are declined then you will receive a notice that the storage fees are due and must be paid within 30 days of receipt. If after 30 days these storage fees and all billing fees are not paid, Orangevale Veterinary Hospital reserves the right to destroy all semen that we have stored for you. Initial _____

Orangevale Veterinary Hospital makes no guarantees, expressed or implied, that conception will occur with this semen, or that the frozen sperm cells are viable or will remain viable at the time on, or after, the cells are frozen. In the event of loss or damage for frozen semen due to natural causes due to weather, fire, storage/shipping tank failure, or shipping accident/damage, Orangevale Veterinary Hospital will not be held liable for the loss of or the replacement value of the semen.

I have read and understand all of the above and that I am the owner or have the legal right to collection and/or ownership of the semen.
